David Walliams and Tony Ross assert the moral right to be identified as the author and illustrator of the work respectively.

This is a work of fiction. Names, characters, businesses, places, events, locales and incidents are either the products of the author's imagination or used in a fictitious manner. Apart from famous historical figures, any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead, or actual events is purely coincidental.

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.
